

MIDAS ASW1 : Themes: Researcher position

Definition	Role Research
It is noticeable from the field notes and the direct ethnographic researcher experience that the researcher is positioned differently in the sites: distance (metaphorical and literal) from the research ‘participant’ is maintained along a continuum of objective vs participatory/subjective. This is a key aspect that shapes the research process, and establishes ‘boundaries between data collection on and off mode’. The question of how to get closer or more distant and its impact on the research process is an interesting one to explore. Example: “researcher-position.mov”
